$200 Month for Legislators Hits a Snag

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A proposal to appropriate $200 a month for public relations expenses for members of the Arkansas House has hit a snag in the Arkansas Senate, but its sponsor hopes for a vote soon.

The proposal is in the form of an amendment to a House bill that authorizes the appropriation of money to some constitutional officers and the speaker of the House.

Rep. N. B. "Nap" Murphy of Hamburg got the House to adopt the amendment to the bill, which was passed and sent to the Senate.

The bill has not come to a vote in the Senate because of an impasse between the two houses on the general appropriations bill. No appropriation bills can be enacted into law until the general appropriations measure has been passed by both houses and the two chambers are at loggerheads over a general appropriations bill.

Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton, chairman of the Joint Budget Committee, said Thursday that he was not aware that the bill was pending in the Senate.

However, the Joint Budget Committee has introduced another constitutional officers' public relations expense bill to "start fresh," according to Harvey. It does not contain any provisions for expenses for House members.

Murphy said he hadn't given up on the House version of the expense bill. He said that as soon as the Senate and House agree on a general appropriations measure, he will push for passage of the expense bill containing the rider for $200 a month for House members.

Cold Moving in

A cold air mass moving across the U.S.-Canada border today is expected to bring near cold wave conditions to Arkansas tonight and Saturday.

Sunshine across most of the state today is expected to change to clouds and some rain showers as the cold air reaches the state tonight.

The forecast calls for lows tonight in the 20s and 30s with highs Saturday in the 40s.

trouble, it was Eisenhower's heart which caused doctors their prime concern.

Doctors made no mention of the congestive heart failure March 15 until after Eisenhower's wife, Mamie, said at a party the general had endured a "particularly bad" day.

Reporters questioned the hospital and were told of the latest onset of heart trouble.

Eisenhower had been hospitalized since late April 29, when a heart attack felled him in California after a round of golf. He was transferred to Walter Reed and there suffered three more, his seventh coming on Aug. 16.

Since then he had gained vigor, walked short distances, received President Nixon and former President Lyndon B. Johnson, and grinned his famed and folksy grin from a hospital window when an Army band, observing "Salute to Eisenhower Week," serenaded him on his birthday Oct. 14.

The grin was undimmed from 1944, when it heartened allied troops mobilized for the awesome thrust through Normandy to the heart of Nazi Germany; from 1948, when he became president of Columbia University; from 1950, when he assumed supreme command of NATO forces; and from 1952, when both Democrats and Republicans sought him as their nominee for president.

As a Republican, he swept into office and four years later won re-election in what was then the greatest landslide in history. That made him the only GOP president of this century to win successive White House terms.

Despite this stunning political victory, Eisenhower disdained always partisan politics and privately made no secret of a dislike for politicians.

"I think in the general derogatory sense you can say, of course, that I do not like politics," he told a 1955 news conference.

And despite his rise to supreme allied commander in Europe during World War II, he was no fonder of what he called "this damnable thing of war."

While in the Army, Eisenhower said he wanted only to see "people in my profession permanently out of a job."

He left office after his second term proud that he kept the peace, but warning against the growing influence of a "military-industrial complex."

Re's reassuring image eased troubled years. Fidel Castro seized Cuba, led it into Communism. The Soviet Union launched Sputnik I. The U2 spy plane was shot down over Russia in flaming controversy.

Eisenhower made good his promise to end the war in Korea, ordered federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce school desegregation, and backed up his secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, in the Cold War policy called "brinkmanship" by critics.

But in 1955 the nation was plunged into apprehension when a severe heart attack hospitalized him in Denver for seven weeks.

Then Vice President Richard M. Nixon, just one faltering heartbeat from the presidency, got a foretaste of the dire responsibility he would not win in his own right until 13 years later.

In the final weeks of the 1960 campaign, Eisenhower made speeches in several big cities for Nixon. The crowds were big and enthusiastic—but often the hand-lettered signs said, "We still like Ike" instead of "We want Dick."

The general stayed neutral in the bitter Republican battle of 1964 which resulted in the nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater, but in last year's campaigning he came out strongly for Nixon.

And Nixon, launched on his comeback, invoked the magic name again: "let's win this one for Ike."

The body will lie in state, first, at the Washington Cathedral for one day.

Would Reconsider Rejection

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell said Thursday he hoped the Arkansas Senate would reconsider its rejection of the appointment of Dr. William H. Townsend of Little Rock to the state Board of Education.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller nominated Townsend, a Negro, for the post but the Senate refused to confirm the appointment.

Purcell, who said he had been out of the state when Townsend's nomination was sent to the Senate, called Townsend a "competent and qualified man."

"I personally feel that if more time and consideration had been given to the appointment, perhaps he would be confirmed," Purcell said.

Another Star Is Born: MacGraw Has Brains as Well as the Charm

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood has a new Cinderella every season, and this year's Cinderella is Ali MacGraw.

All is the Manhattan fashion model who was picked from more than 100 aspirants, many of them well-known actresses, to play the lead of Brenda in the film version of Philip Roth's prize-winning book, "Goodbye, Columbus."

"I still find the situation incredible," she said, speaking of her debut as a star. "I thought I had been passed over several times. I wasn't even among the first four who were selected to be sent to Hollywood for film tests."

But she survived the winnowing, and if the picture achieves its predicted box-office success the future looks bright indeed for her.

However, Ali—a family abbreviation for Alice—is one Cinderella who isn't swept off her feet by the glamor of it all. She calls herself an incurable romantic, but she might be more aptly termed a practical idealist.

"What impels me most is simply the fantastic sensation of being alive. I'm not hedonistic in a frenzied way. But every single solitary thing in life interests me."

"I don't know for sure where I want to go. What's more important than where I go is the process of getting there. Every second is worth something, whether it's happy or sad."

Miss MacGraw is a sprightly young lady, gazelle slender, 5 feet 8 inches tall, with dark shoulder-length hair and eloquent dark eyes. Her long, tapering fingers are eloquent, too, and she keeps her hands in almost constant movement as she speaks.

Behind her dramatic beauty lies a fine brain. Daughter of a father and mother who work as commercial artists, she herself is a talented artist, a graduate of Wellesley College, and can speak French, Italian and Russian.

"In college I didn't know what I wanted to do," she remarked. "I liked—and still like—to do a lot of things."

"I became a fashion assistant at a woman's magazine, but the excitement wore off quickly. I decided I didn't want to spend my life working with 75 women hung up on how they looked."

All then became a stylist and researcher for Melvin Sokolsky, the commercial photographer, where her duties ranged from authenticating backgrounds to ironing the hair ribbons for models. Then she became a model herself, working for both television and magazines. In her spare time she took acting lessons and continued her language studies.

"Modeling is a good field," she said, "because you can do very little of it and earn enough to pay your skeletal costs and still have time left to do everything you really want to."

"I like to have time to myself. I'd hate to have to work on a nine-to-five job. I don't feel you have to have a big-paying job to feel your life is justified. If I like what I'm doing—that's what counts."

people, and were for the most part fiscally sound.

The report says that 1,238 audits of OEO program involving $1,067 billion indicate that 97.5 per cent of the antipoverty funds "were spent in complete accordance with OEO guidelines."

Some $28 million of the total amount audited was questioned, and $14 million of this was subsequently cleared.

The report says $8 million is still "under discussion" and $6 million dollars was disallowed.

Where money has been lost through dishonesty, however, bonding generally takes care of the deficit, Genovese said.

Currently, there are 17 cases concerning fraud, forgery or embezzlement awaiting disposition by the Justice Department, one of them involving the celebrated Blackstone Rangers.

The Rangers, a Chicago youth gang, was accused of siphoning off antipoverty funds to buy firearms and marijuana, OEO official say the case is still under investigation by the FBI.

Recent disclosures of fraud and corruption in the New York City Neighborhood Youth Corps program also have been laid at OEO's door.

about her future film career.

"I want to continue in pictures," she said, "but the size of the part isn't as important as the quality of it."

"This is incredibly hard work, emotionally and physically. At the end of the day you're wrung out. Since it takes so much out of you, you need to feel pride in what you do."

"I don't want to crank out a multimillion-dollar picture that is just a piece of garbage."

knowledge a 'Creator' in some form."

Bray said he has asked the Army to explain the reasoning behind its decision.

An Army spokesman said the basic objectives of the program remain unchanged. He said the main consideration in ordering the change was a soldier's constitutional rights of freedom of religion.

"It was not believed proper to have soldiers attending mandatory classes with religious overtones," he said. "Soldiers, as always, are fully encouraged to attend religious services of their respective faiths."

The Army explained that while the character guidance courses are usually prepared and given by chaplains, the program is directed by the Army's personnel division.

Four hours of the subject are required during basic training and one hour is given each month to all soldiers.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

CAN THE JELLYFISH TURN? Dear Helen: I am getting rid of a frustration by writing this letter to you.

Ever since I can remember, my parents kept saying, "What will people think (or say)?" and "Don't hurt anyone's feelings." Boy, have those two sentences left their mark on me! My folks were good, gentle people and wanted me to be the same. As a result, I am nothing but a patsy.

Here's an example: My girl friend works and, because I can use the extra money, I care for her baby. I am paid for nine hours a day. But this friend calls and says she will be late, as she has an appointment, or is going out for the evening. So I end up keeping the baby several hours longer—at no extra pay. Why don't I mention it? Because I'm afraid I'll hurt her feelings.

When I was in school, I always played what the other kids wanted because I was afraid to dissent. In stores, I can't say "no" to a clerk when she tries to sell me something I don't want. What my hairdresser does is always "lovely" even if I don't like the bangs. I'd love to wear false eyelashes, but "what will people say?"

I could go on and on, but you get the idea. I am 31 years old and desperately want to stop being sweet little Godey Two-shoes, who never kicks back. Is it too late?—JUST A JELLYFISH

Dear J.A.J. A jellyfish will never become a killer shark, but you CAN get a little sand in your craw (or what a jellyfish has) and learn to speak out when it's necessary.

Start first with false eyelashes (for courage). You'd be surprised what nice things "people will say" about them.

Then practice the gentle turn-down on sales clerks. Really, they expect it, and they respect you having a mind of your own.

By this time you'll surely be able to tell your girl friend that you've "worked out after-hours rates, as any good business woman should."

You'll have less trouble changing your image if you realize that more than half of us feel we're Milquetoasts at heart and are busily trying to change ours.

—H.

Dear Helen: I want a baby. But I'm not married, nor do I plan to be in the near future. That right man hasn't come along. But I know I could give a good home and a great deal of wise love to a child. Perhaps the logical thing would be to have an affair and get my baby, but society frowns on this. Besides, there MUST be children in this country who need one parent if two aren't available.

I asked the Welfare Adoption and they indicated babies almost always go to couples, and my only hope would be an older child—maybe a relative or something, or one who is hard to adopt. Besides, they're a little skeptical of "single adoptions" in our state.

Tell me, is there hope for career girls who want the fulfillment of children but don't want to rush into marriage for that reason alone? I'm only 25, so would prefer a baby.—HOPEFUL MOTHER-TO-BE

Dear Hopeful: "Single adoptions" are gaining favor in several states, but, as you say, the singles are last in line. You can get a "hard to place" child (older, handicapped, or of mixed racial background), but if you want a baby, your best bet is to find an unwed mother who does not want hers. Then hire a lawyer who will make the necessary legal adoption arrangements with the State.

This is chancy, for the mother has a right to change her mind, and the investigating agency may rule against you, any time during the first six months you have the baby.

May we hear from other "singles" who have adopted children, and how they have gone about it? —H.

PERSONAL TO "LIKES SNAPPY ANSWERS": When a man asks, "Are you free tonight?" it's a little dangerous to answer, "No, but I'm reasonable" unless you are.—H.

Presbyterian Plan Holy Week Services

Four Biblical characters, who knew Jesus, will be impersonated in the series of Holy Week services to be held at the First Presbyterian church in Hope beginning Sunday night, Mar. 30 at 7:30 p.m.

Simon Peter will be the first character to appear, being impersonated by Dr. Lee Black of Hot Springs, who has been doing this type of religious drama for 30 years. Peter will be represented as coming suddenly to life after being dead for nearly 2000 years to tell of his experiences with Christ. Dr. Black will appear in Oriental costume as worn in the time of Christ. Steve Harris and Mary Nell Branch will assist Dr. Black in the Sunday night service.

Nicodemus, member of the Jewish Sanhedrin, will be presented Monday night with young people from the Presbyterian church in Prescott and their pastor, the Rev. John I. Fowler, participating in the service. It is expected that a large number of the Prescott Presbyterians will attend.

John, the Beloved, will be presented Tuesday night as a very old man, the Bishop of Ephesus. His message will be based on the gospel which bears his name. Amella Leverett and Rebecca Stuart will represent the Presbyterian young people as Dr. Black's assistants.

Dr. Black's impersonations will come to a climax Wednesday night with appearance of Judas Iscariot, who will tell his story in a unique, thrilling and dramatic manner. The audience is asked to remember that Judas will tell his own story hence he will be slow to condemn himself. Billy Tolleson and Dan Stuart will be the young people assisting in the services.

Members of all local and neighboring churches are invited and urged to attend these unusual Holy Week services, according to the Rev. James E. Sewell, pastor of the local church. As all of the characters to be presented lived in the time of Jesus they knew nothing of our denominationalism or of our history of dogmas and creeds so you can expect to hear only their fascinating stories of their experiences with Christ, said Mr. Sewell.

On Thursday, following the conclusion of Dr. Black's impersonations, the Presbyterians will observe Holy communion at 7:30 p.m. There will be no special services on Friday.

Hoffa Taking Prison Life in Stride

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—A former convict friend of James R. Hoffa says the imprisoned Teamsters president is taking penitentiary life "like a soldier, asking no favors."

Hoffa, behind federal prison bars since March, 1967, has never stopped fighting for his release and "has lawyers coming in all the time—about twice a week," the informant said in an interview.

He expressed the opinion that prison life "is bothering him, but he won't admit it. He's pretty damn stubborn, and he won't ask for anything, and he could get things a lot easier."

Pope Names 35 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI today named 35 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church, including Archbishop Terence Cooke of New York and John Dearn of Detroit.

Thirty-three of the new princes of the Church will be elevated at a secret consistory April 28.

Two of them will not be present. The Pope named them "in pectore"—in his heart—and will not reveal their identity until some future time or perhaps never. This has been done in the past where the announcement of a prelate's elevation might endanger his safety, if he was in a country whose government was inimical to the Church, for example.

The consistory will increase the College of Cardinals to a record membership of 134.

No Clash Yet by Rogers, Fulbright

By HARRY KELLY

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Has the cold war ended between the Senate foreign Relations Committee and the State Department?

The change in times, events and men have brought such a contrast in mood that the first public questioning of Secretary of State William P. Rogers by the committee— and chairman J. W. Fulbright— was almost a love feast.

A year ago the debate over Vietnam and whether to end the bombing was raging. There was no hint of Paris peace talks. Lyndon Johnson, worrying about the war, U.S. dissension and primary results, was preparing to announce he would not seek re-election as president.

Relations between the Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the dove wing of the committee had become so frayed that Fulbright complained he was unable to get the secretary to testify on Vietnam at public hearing.

And when Rusk did appear to make his solid defense of the administration's position in Vietnam, critic Fulbright felt it necessary to explain to Rusk and the public:

"I know that you understand, and those in this room and the public at large will understand, that the discussion between you and the committee . . . is not inspired in any way by personal animus toward you."

Now the committee doves see Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird as the Nixon administration hawk with his tough talk about the Soviet missile arsenal and his view that no reduction in the U.S. troop strength in Vietnam is foreseeable.

A successful lawyer, the new secretary of state is smooth, open and pleasant.

With less than three months in the State Department's executive suite his talk is free of the Foggy Bottom phrases and Pentagonese that irk it not infuriate Fulbright and some other committee members.

More important he can talk of progress in secret peace talks and of "some what warmer" U.S.-Soviet relations.

Fulbright left no doubt he wanted Rogers and the State department to stand up to Laird and the Pentagon on anything touching foreign policy.

The committee, Fulbright said, is "interested in strengthening the hand of the State Department." In dealing with the power of the military.

Rogers said he appreciated Fulbright's points and appreciate the support of this committee.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., called Rogers' testimony "a fine performance."

Fulbright, smiling under his eyeshade, called it "an auspicious beginning."

Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., cautioned the secretary that on his next time off the committee might push him harder.

Contraception, Celibacy to Be Discussed

By BENNETT M. BOLTON

Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The National Federation of Priests' Councils (NFPC) wound up routine convention business speedily to move into open debate to day on the Roman Catholic issues of contraception, celibacy and defecting priests.

The Rev. Patrick O'Malley of Chicago, NFPC president, said there was no plan to bring up specific issues when the meeting was opened to the 250 delegates for resolutions on any subject.

But the delegation from Washington, D.C., composed of two priests whose cardinal ordered them out of their rectories last fall for saying Catholic spouses could follow their consciences in using contraceptives, intended to push for clear-cut federation statements on that moral question and others.

The Rev. Joseph O'Donoghue, backed by his colleague the Rev. John Corrigan had complained when the three-day national convention began Monday that none of the "grave crises we face" in current church life was included on the convention agenda.

The federation, formed less than a year ago, has been generally moderate in its approach to Catholicism's internal turmoil.

The delegates Tuesday night went into separate geographic regional caucuses to talk over the positions they would take once free debate started.

Misinterpreted Letter, Says Prisoner

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An inmate who wrote a letter interpreted as claiming brutality still exists in Arkansas' prisons says he was misinterpreted — that prison life is better than it used to be.

Roy Wilbur, author of the letter, clarified his feelings in an interview with Kathy Goshell of the Pine Bluff Commercial Thursday night.

He was critical of some aspects of the prison system as it exists today, but said that on the whole the reform movement is gaining ground.

The letter came after former Prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton, fired a year ago for insubordination and on other grounds, told a U.S. Senate subcommittee on prison reform that brutality still existed in Arkansas' prisons.

Of Murton's testimony, Wilbur said, "I wrote the letter to correct it. I just want to tell the truth — what actually happened."

Wilbur, a native of Little Rock, is serving a three-year sentence from Dallas County for assault with intent to rob. He has served time in the state's prisons for two previous convictions.

Wilbur's letter was interpreted in many quarters as a claim that brutality still exists. Among those giving it that interpretation was C. Robert Sarver, the state corrections commissioner.

In an interview Thursday, Sarver said that Wilbur had "changed his position," and now was asserting that brutality had diminished in the prisons.

When asked why he chose not to announce the charge in Wilbur's position, Sarver said, "What good would it do? Somebody would just come along and say that we beat it out of him."

Wilbur said his clarification was not coerced. He said he had been misunderstood.

His letter referred to an incident last summer when prisoners were confined to a fenced area called the "dog pen," and one of them was chained to the fence, an incident made public by The Associated Press.

"There was no food but two slices of bread a day," his letter said. "The hot sun beamed down on them . . . if it should

Oil Fire in California Kills One

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Firefighters spraying fountains of foam today put out a huge oil and gasoline fire which killed a tanker truck attendant and burned 50 other persons—many of them spectators.

A county fire department spokesman said the fire in a fuel storage tank field was completely controlled after firemen snuffed out flames leaping around a storage tank filled with one million gallons of gasoline.

Sheriff's Deputy John Barnick said the injuries to spectators would have been averted if they had heeded officers' warnings to move back.

rain they got wet. The fever insects bit them."

Wilbur said he still opposes use of the "dog pen" in that way.

Sarver was not in command of the prison system at that time. He said the "dog pen" has not been used in the months he has been corrections commissioner and probably will not be used again, unless the use of it is concealed from him. However, his mind was not definite on this.

At certain points, Wilbur's letter mentions Sarver by name and, in language not always clear, indicates Sarver is responsible for some faults in the prison system.

After Wilbur's assertion that he had been misunderstood, Sarver was asked why Wilbur might have made such charges against him in the first place.

"Beats the hell out of me," Sarver answered. "This sort of thing occurs in the correction business. It's something you have to learn to live with."

After Sarver indicated that the "dog pen" would not be used again, he was asked what action the prison would take against discipline or control men who refused orders to work.

WHAT'S IMPORTANT...YOU RECOVERED MY MONEY! I'M NOT ONE TO SEEK REVENGE! BESIDES, SHE WAS SO CHARMING, SHE CAN'T BE ALL BAD!

WAIT, EASY! I FORGOT! THE FIRST YOU BELIEVE I'M NOT ONE PERFECT SO LET'S FORGET IT!

God's Word Says Come

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

ah, yes! GOD Lives

We live in a wonderful world full of purpose and values. All this requires a Purposer, a Creator. The more we discover the universe, the more we are sure there is a creative artist at work. Visit the mountains, stand by the sea, witness the storm, and we become aware of a power greater than man. It is God and He is not dead as the man said. The sun rises in a pattern and the stars obey a scheme. We bow to the law of gravity and enjoy a world controlled by dependable systems. We believe in natural law . . . God's law. Without a great creative power we could not have had Moses, Mohammed, Buddha and Jesus Christ. When we put Creative Power, Wisdom and Righteousness together, belief in God is the result. He is at the controls. God is not dead.

Restricted Automobile Use in Cities Seen Within Two Years

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe says it may be necessary to curb the use of automobiles in the nation's cities unless a mass transit breakthrough is achieved within two years.

"Some type of mass transportation has got . . . to get into operation pretty rapidly or we do face the real possibility that either we have to shut off to rubber tires certain limited areas within a city or charge a fee to come in there," Volpe said in an interview with The Associated Press.

The secretary acknowledged the need for new highways but said "we wouldn't be in the mess we're in today" if mass transit systems had been built as fast as expressways.

Volpe predicted that the motorist would begin looking for alternatives to being mired in traffic jams.

"If you get down to a point where automobiles have to travel five miles an hour, well, you know how long people are going to use them," he said. "They are going to walk to work instead of ride. Of course, it wouldn't hurt them if they did, either, I might add."

"Bold new ideas" are needed, Volpe said. But he added it would probably be five years before new developments could be in service.

"We can't wait that long for some of these things," he said.

Here are excerpts from the interview:

Q. What veto power, if any, should central city residents have over freeway construction in their neighborhoods?

A. Any responsible group should certainly have an opportunity to voice its opinions strongly and in the clearest terms. I think it is up to public agencies . . . to listen to these inputs on the part of neighborhood groups or citywide groups, action-oriented groups, . . . or whatever they might be.

But in the final analysis it is the elected or appointed officials who have to make some final judgments . . .

Expressways are only one form. I'm convinced that you just don't stop a highway program because, perhaps, a few additional homes will have to be taken.

But, by the same token, you just can't depend on a highway program to do the job completely, because it can't do the job. This has been proven in New York City . . . where over half a century ago—1917, I guess—the pushcart era—the average speed was 11 miles an hour. Today it's 7 miles an hour in New York. So we haven't made much progress in over half a century. So something needs to be done. And it needs to be done in a bold and imaginative way . . .

Q. Some urban experts propose a series of user charges to discourage use of the automobile in central cities during business hours. Do you believe it necessary to ration the use of the automobile in some way?

A. Well, either we make a great deal more progress in mass transportation than we've made in the last five years, or within the next year or two, you're going to have to come to some type of restriction on certain areas within . . . the core city on the utilization of the automobile.

It could be the utilization of the trucks. I mean the delivery of goods during certain hours. It could be the separation of pedestrian and vehicle traffic . . . We are going to have to come to some type of solution along those lines . . .

I would prefer to see the alternative of taking some people off the automobile tires if you provide good, swift, safe, economical mass transportation . . .

Q. How do you think the highway lobby would greet such a step?

A. I think they recognize the highway user himself is going to become so frustrated that he is going to be willing to experiment with anything rather than spend 13 per cent of his day and, maybe within a year or two, 20 per cent of his daily working hours behind another automobile and taking in all the fumes that come from it.

It means the automobile manufacturer, the gasoline producers, the retail distributors are going to be faced with a situation of reduction in the utilization of the product which gives them their living unless something is done to bring about a better situation than that which presently exists . . . If you get down to a point where automobiles have to travel five miles an hour, well, you know how long people are going to use them. They are going to walk to work instead of ride. Of course, it wouldn't hurt them if they did either, I might add.

... You are going to need highways as long as there's a United States of America.

But you are going to need mass transportation a great deal more and it's got to catch up. If we had gone along with mass transportation . . . at the same speed and started it about the same time we did with the highway stepup, we wouldn't be in the mess we're in today.

Q. What can be done now to get people out of ghettos to work in suburban factories?

A. This is, of course, another one of the problems. The dial-a-bus, of course, that's being worked on, the many other factors that are being worked on, the express bus transportation . . . There may be a better way to do it but we have a few examples I gave there recently.

One in New York, for a ghetto worker to get from Harlem to Long Island-Farmington. What is it, an hour and 45 minutes each way? From Watts to an aerospace center, 16 miles, but an hour and a half each way and three changes, transfers, and so forth.

Now, if we are going to get some responsible work, and not just menial work, for these ghetto workers . . . Then we've got to provide a means of transportation for these people to get these jobs and we can't wait five years to get the answers.

Q. Sen. Harrison Williams of New Jersey has proposed creation of an urban transit trust fund to be financed out of automobile excise taxes. What is your reaction to such a proposal?

A. As far as I'm concerned, I believe the trust fund concept is one way to finance it. I believe it's the surest way I have heard of. Someone may come up with a better answer. I haven't seen a better answer yet.

a motion to override a veto on a bill that would have given the state Welfare Board the power to hire and fire the welfare director and to set policy for the department.

Bills to repeal the Fair Trade Liquor law have been introduced in numerous sessions since the law became effective but the measures have always been killed in committee.

Rep. Leroy Blankenship, an attorney from Walnut Ridge, said he had been told that he would lose two of his clients and that the liquor interests would "get him" if he voted for the bill. However, he said, he would be proud to serve only one term if he could "do something good."

The law provides for a minimum markup of 13 per cent above cost for wholesalers and 30 per cent above cost for retailers. Lobbyists for the wholesalers had opposed the repeal bill.

Proponents said repeal of the law would lower the price of liquor, despite a provision in the bill that would increase the tax from $2.50 to $5.55 on each gallon of liquor.

The bill fell three votes short of passage in a 48-27 roll call.

The Senate passed the House election code bill, which was drawn by the attorney general's office, on a 30-3 vote after attaching several amendments to it. The measure goes back to the lower chamber for concurrence in amendments.

The measure, bill as a Democratic party proposal, would change the date of the first preferential primary from the last week in July to the last week in August. A runoff primary would come the second week in September, one month later than provided for under present law.

It also would extend the deadline for filing for office from May 1 until the third week of June.

The Senate voted 31-1 to override Rockefeller's veto on the county judges salary measure. The governor had disapproved the bill because it had eliminated an expense allowance for the Republican judge in Logan County.

The Senate also passed 23-5 and sent to the governor a House bill that would prohibit the state Game and Fish Commission from enforcing a controversial regulation banning the free running of dogs from April through July pending a study of whether the regulation would be of substantial benefit to the state wildlife program.

Meanwhile, the House failed on two attempts to pass the appropriation bill for the Game and Fish Commission but expelled the record of the vote both times. The reluctance to pass the bill came because the lower chamber was waiting to see what the Senate would do with the bill dealing with free running of dogs.

The motion to override the veto on the welfare measure was soundly rejected in a 19-62 vote, with 51 votes needed.

The Senate defeated 11-18 a bill that would make it possible for savings and loan

Supersonic Transport Is Doubtful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The supersonic transport, which has associations to obtain deposits of state funds.

The Senate-House conference committee attempting to resolve differences over the general appropriation bill met Thursday and Sen. Max Howell of Little Rock said they were close to reaching agreement on salary increases for the state's judges.

Howell said the committee appeared close to approving increases of $3,000 for Supreme Court justices and $1,200 for chancery and circuit judges.

The House refused Wednesday to concur in a Senate amendment which would have given the high court justices $4,000 salary raises and the other judges an additional $2,000 annually.

generated almost as much noise within government as critics say it would in flight, faces a doubtful future at the hands of a budget-conscious White House.

A final decision on the controversial program is expected soon after a report goes to President Nixon this week from Secretary of Transportation John Volpe.

Volpe has until recently been an outspoken supporter of developing an American SST and for this reason the report is expected to be favorable if not an outright recommendation for continued work.

Spadework for the report, however, was done by a review board of Cabinet undersecretaries and high-level agency heads known to have included bitter critics of the SST.

Although the report is likely to carry considerable weight, it goes to the White House at a time when President Nixon is combing the budget for soft spots and may be reluctant to restore funds that former President Johnson left out of his 1970s.

Volpe took note of this in a recent interview with the Associated Press when he said "all of us recognize the inflationary picture."

Program leaders have estimated more than $200 million will be needed to continue SST development in the next fiscal year. If the 1,800-mile-an-hour airliner is to become available for commercial use by 1976 or 1977.

The Boeing Co., Seattle, has a contract to build two prototype or flying test models, using engines provided by General Electric Co., Cincinnati. The Federal Aviation Administration has estimated that the government and contractors will have spent 1.5 billion on the program by the time the prototype phase has been completed.

SST backers say the United States must develop its own model to remain competitive with the French-British Concorde and the Russian TU144. Both the foreign models have flown, but are not expected to be in commercial use until the 1970s.

Eisenhower Is Claimed by Death

WASHINGTON (AP) Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander in World War II of the mightiest armed force ever assembled and former president of the United States, died today.

The announcement of the general's death was made in a somber voice by Brig. Gen. Frederick...

ic Hughes Jr., commanding general of Walter Reed Army Hospital who said that Eisenhower had "died quietly at 12:25 p.m. EST after a long and heroic struggle," and that he had died peacefully.

"Mrs. Eisenhower and members of the immediate family" were nearby at the time of death, Hughes continued.

He added President Nixon, former President Lyndon B. Johnson and Eisenhower's two brothers had been notified.

Nixon meanwhile drove from the White House to the hospital. The White House said he would have a statement, a message to Congress and a proclamation later.

The 78-year-old five-star general, known as "Ike" throughout the world, was hit by congestive heart failure March 15 and again last Monday while recuperating from an intestinal operation and pneumonia complications.

With the rugged constitution of a Kansas farm boy, he already had battled back from seven heart attacks before undergoing surgery for an intestinal obstruction Feb. 23.

Four days after undergoing the high-risk surgery, he contracted pneumonia. Doctors successfully combated the pneumonia with antibiotics.

But throughout the February

Secret Report Reveals OEO Wasting Money by Fraud, Corruption

By MALCOLM BARR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret report compiled for the Office of Economic Opportunity admits the antipoverty agency is wasting money, but claims the amount is small, can't be avoided and program results make the losses worthwhile.

The report, sent this week to Acting OEO Director Bertrand Harding, denies allegations of widespread fraud, corruption and theft and points with apparent pride to the fact "only six million dollars" has been challenged.

Extensive audits of OEO programs, the report says, "show a very high degree of accountability," the fact the $6 million has been questioned doesn't mean the money was stolen, it adds.

The report comes at a time when OEO, flagship of former President Johnson's war on poverty, is battling for survival against a doubting Republican administration.

President Nixon already has ordered the showcase Job Corps and Head Start programs transferred to older line agencies and has said OEO's main task should be as an "incubator" of experimental new programs.

"It should be made clear that OEO is administratively sound," the study by the agency's Office of Inspection and its Auditing Division states.

"In order to involve the poor in shaping their own destiny, we have taken responsible chances."

An OEO official, asked what chances, said:

"If you don't think organizing a farm cooperative in the South through a group of poor, black people who are not experienced in business and fiscal matters wasn't taking a chance, then I don't know what is."

He said this venture, and others like it, were worth the gamble, had improved the lives of thousands of poverty-stricken

Liquor Price Fixing Bill Fails Again

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A bill to repeal a 1949 law that fixes minimum markups on the price of liquor was defeated in the Arkansas House Thursday.

Longtime legislative observers said they believed it marked the first time that such a bill had actually come to a vote in the General Assembly.

Rep. Ben Burton, a freshman from De Queen, succeeded where many lawmakers had failed when he persuaded the House to bring the bill to a vote, despite the Revenue and Taxation Committee's traditional "do not pass" recommendation that was placed on the bill last month.

"The hour is here to do something to redeem the reputation of the House of Representatives," Burton told his colleagues. "And there's no more spectacular way to do it."

In other action Thursday, the Senate passed a bill to recodify and streamline the state's election laws and completed the legislative process of overriding Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's veto of a bill setting the salaries of the 75 county judges.

The House, however, rejected

Willingness of Nixon to Negotiate Could Speed Secret Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's declared readiness to negotiate simultaneously on military and political settlements in Vietnam may result in speeding up agreement on secret peace talks in Paris.

Officials familiar with the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong approach to the negotiations say they place higher priority on the political future of South Vietnam than agreement on a mutual withdrawal of their own troops and those of the U.S. and its allies.

While the Nixon administration's emphasis recently has been on the need for negotiation of troop withdrawal, Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a Senate Foreign Relations Committee Thursday:

"I think it is in the interest of everyone to work out a settlement of both a military nature and a political nature, and I would hope these could be discussed at the same time—either in parallel bilateral talks or in some other fashion."

Rogers thus envisioned the possibility of two sets of discussions going on side by side:—Between the United States and North Vietnam. These would be concerned primarily with working out an agreement for reduction and ultimate removal of all foreign troops from the South.

—Between the Vietcong-National Liberation Front and Saigon. These would deal with the political future of the country.

Rogers made it clear, however, the United States would accept some different arrangement for secret negotiations if the Communists prefer.

He carefully avoided telling the senators whether secret negotiations have in fact started, or are about to. He argued the administration's no-information policy must cover not only what goes on in private discussions in Paris but also whether private meetings are even being held.

U.S. Convoy Ambushed a Second Time

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — More than 200 North Vietnamese ambushed a U.S. convoy for the second time in two days northwest of Saigon today but were beaten back by new Sheridan light tanks, armored personnel carriers, planes and helicopter gunships.

One of the controversial 16-ton Sheridan tanks was destroyed by a rocket grenade that sliced through the turret and set it afire. Four tankers were wounded, two seriously.

Reports from the battle on the Ben Cui rubber plantation 45 miles northwest of Saigon said 46 North Vietnamese and three Americans were killed. The three Americans were riding in an armored personnel carrier that was hit by a rocket grenade.

Battlefront reports said the Sheridans, criticized in Congress this week, fired deadly anti-tank "Beehives" point blank. Each "Beehive" is loaded with more than 10,000 pieces of shrapnel an inch and a half long in the shape of darts.

Ten miles south on Highway 19, hundreds of North Vietnamese tried to ambush another 25th Division convoy Tuesday. That time 85 of the enemy and two Americans were reported killed.

U.S. spokesmen said the North Vietnamese today either opened fire too soon or were spotted by tankmen a mile ahead of the 120 trucks of arm-

Arabs Want Israel to Accept Big 4 Formula for Mid-East Peace

By MILTON BESSER
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Arab countries appear to be mounting a campaign to pressure Israel into accepting Big Four powers as architects of peace in the Middle East.

The pattern emerged in statement to Thursday by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Cairo and by Jordan at the urgent session of the U.N. Security Council in New York. The Jordan position got strong support from the Soviet Union.

Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra of Jordan charged in the council that the Israeli raid on a village near Salt on Wednesday was undertaken with the aim of torpedoing the peace efforts of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France.

Israeli Ambassador Yosef Tekoah denied the charge and said the raid was aimed at a base of Al Fatah, the Arab guerrilla organization which proclaims as its aim the destruction of Israel.

Tekoah asserted that if the Arab governments failed to stop activities of guerrilla fighters based on their territories Israel would "itself take all the necessary measures to put an end to it."

In a speech in Cairo, Nasser declared that the Middle East crisis was approaching the explosive stage, and that it was up to the Big Four powers to act to prevent a blowup.

He spoke as the chief U.N. delegates of the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France—all permanent members of the council—prepared to meet to discuss how to achieve a durable Middle East peace.

Nasser said he was resisting pressure to launch reprisal strikes against Israeli civilian targets, but added: "The day will come when the bombing and shelling of Egyptian civilians will be answered by the bombing and shelling of civilians."

He expressed dissatisfaction with U.S. proposals for the Middle East, saying there was really no change in policy toward Israel under President Nixon.

Israel has declared repeatedly that it will not accept a peace settlement imposed by the Big Four, and that is up to the Arabs and Israel to achieve peace through negotiations.

The United States has taken cognizance of the Israeli position, and in informal bilateral talks with the other three powers has stressed a voluntary and not an imposed settlement.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob Malik supported Jordan's charges in the Council. In addition to castigating Israel in general, Malik said it was obvious that the Israeli government sought to subvert Big Four peace efforts.

One of your editor's habitual barbs is where he says if every American were compelled to make out his income tax personally instead of hiring some expert to do it for him this would be a better government.

All it costs Old Easy-Go Citizen is his check for the tax. But the man who engages his tax return in personal combat learns not only about record-keeping but discovers that it builds a fire under him to go out and reform this supposedly unreformable bureaucracy we call "government."

On company returns I use an auditor, of course—and the same certified public accountant firm that we started with in 1929 is serving The Star today. But all these years I have struggled with my personal return alone—surviving the constant changes and new complexities in the tradition of that old familiar lie about the farm boy: If he practices lifting his pet calf every day he'll still be able to lift it when it's a grown bull. The trouble is, it just isn't so.

And events finally caught up with me, too. This week, for the first time, I had to turn my personal report over to the company auditor to complete. I prepared all the usual schedules—but this time the report was hampered by security sales attending my purchase of control of The Star, requiring extensive analysis of long-term profit or loss. . . and when you get in that shape you need both a lawyer and a C.P.A., and the company auditor happens to be both.

That I stayed with it to the 11th hour is witnessed by the fact that it cost me 84 cents postage to forward my calculations and proof to Little Rock earlier this week, and then I didn't feel easy until I got the auditor on the 'phone this morning and was assured the mail had arrived safely.

Auditor Lewis R. Cooper is one of Arkansas' better known fly fishermen. In his younger days he would come down from Arkadelphia during the summer and play second base for a Hope team in the Sunday School League. It was like all amateur leagues of the 1920s, Lewis made enough money to put himself through school.

Fishing was mentioned in this morning's telephone hassle—but there again you have the sad confrontation of civilized times: God meant the Spring for fishing—but Man has tied it up with the tight knots of Bookkeeping and Income Tax Returns.

The Star has four full-color productions coming up, to begin publication next week, ahead of Easter.

We have:

1, The Evening Grosbeaks which have been visiting our city, photographed at the Harry W. Shiver house, 309 N. Main St.

2, A bright fire burning in the hearth at the restored Tavern in Washington.

3, Spring jonquils at Washington's old county jail.

4, Mrs. Earl (Janice) Lockett, 1005 S. Walnut St., and the giant macaw she and her husband got as a chick when they lived in Venezuela.

Federal Aid Not Easy to Cut Off

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Dr. Leon W. Francis, president of the Pine Bluff School Board, says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare must go through several administrative procedures before it can cut off federal aid from the district.

Francis made the statement Thursday.

Lloyd R. Henderson, acting director of the Civil Rights Office of the HEW, notified Francis earlier in the week that he had recommended proceedings to cut off federal aid to the district be initiated because of the district's decision to revert to a freedom-of-choice desegregation plan.

The proceedings could result in the loss of about $700,000 annually to the district.

Army Orders Chaplains Not to Refer to God in Lectures to GIs

By LAWRENCE L. KNUSTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has ordered chaplains to eliminate all reference to God and religious philosophy in lectures aimed at instilling moral responsibility in its soldiers.

An Army spokesman confirmed the new policy Thursday after word of it had reached some members of Congress, angering many of them.

The new policy was prompted by a complaint last year from the American Civil Liberties Union that the lectures—intended to instill a sense of moral responsibility in soldiers—were being used as religious indoctrination.

The ACLU now is asking the Air Force and Navy to take similar steps.

The ACLU objected to numerous passages in character-guidance training manuals, including one that told members of the Women's Army Corps they should do their jobs well "not for reward . . . but simply because it is obviously the will of God."

The forward to character guidance manuals, in use by the army for many years, states the program is based on the philosophy of American freedom which "regards man as a creature of God."

"As such, every soldier is responsible and accountable to his Creator for the way he performs his civic and military duty, for the maintaining of his own and his nation's honor, and for the quality of service he renders to his country as a soldier," the manual states.

"I cannot remotely understand what anyone finds offensive in this concept," said Rep. William C. Bray, R-Md. "The term Creator means many things to many people, and all but a very tiny majority, no matter what their faith, do ac-
